

before Indiana passed her phone law, I could not get off of some companies phone lists. I got an unlisted number which still did not stop calls. I'd get several every day. since I put myself on my state's list, even the worst company has managed to remove my number and I get about 1 call per month from companies that I want to hear from. I also still get about 1 call a month from unsolicited callers, who no longer call back. Please do not weaken Indiana's law. It alone keeps obnoxious companies reasonably polite.
